SIXTH SCHEDULE

Section 187.

RULES AS TO TAKING STATEMENT OF ACCUSED PERSON

1. The accused making a statement must not be cross-examined, and no questions should be put to him except for the purpose of removing ambiguity in what he has actually said. For instance, if he had said "it was morning" without saying whether it was morning or evening, or has given a day of the week and day of the month which do not agree, or has not made it clear to what individual or what place he intended to refer in his statement, he may be questioned sufficiently to clear up the point.

2. The Court should refer the accused to the requirements of section 131, in relation to alibis, and i explain to him in simple terms the meaning of an alibi. The Court should then tell the accused that if he has an alibi for the charge is an alibi he may give his explanation now, although he may not yet be able to name the witnesses, or the names of whom he proposes to prove it, giving notice of the witnesses later, within the time specified in the section.

3. If any statement already made by the accused and intended, according to the summary of evidence, to be true, and if in evidence at his trial appears to the Court to be inconsistent with the statement now being made, the Court should draw his attention to the inconsistency and invite him to make any correction he may wish in his statement.

4. If, in view of any explanation given by the accused in his statement, the Court thinks it desirable that the prosecution should give further consideration to the case, the Court should adjourn the proceedings for such period and purpose.
